

5 Free Freelance Prompts That Actually Work

Sample quality from Cudjoe Digital Studio

5 Free Freelance Prompts

The same standard as our paid packs.

Cold outreach that gets replies

WHEN TO USE

First message to a prospect.

THE PROMPT

Write a cold outreach message from [ME] to [PROSPECT] at [COMPANY] who [WHY THEY MATTER]. Goal: book a 15-minute call. Lead with one specific observation about their business. Keep under 120 words. Forbidden: 'I hope this finds you well'.

CUSTOMIZE

Use a real observation you found in research.

WHAT GOOD LOOKS LIKE

A short message that starts with their world, not yours.

Proposal that sells the outcome

WHEN TO USE

Sending a proposal.

THE PROMPT

Write a project proposal for [CLIENT] for [PROJECT]. Client's goal: [GOAL]. Approach: [2-3 SENTENCES]. Timeline: [X] weeks. Budget: GH¢ [AMOUNT]. Structure: outcome, week-by-week deliverables, what you need from them, two pricing options.

CUSTOMIZE

Add one line they said in your discovery call.

WHAT GOOD LOOKS LIKE

A proposal a busy owner can approve in 2 minutes.

Scope-creep response

WHEN TO USE

Client asks for extra work.

THE PROMPT

Write a reply to [CLIENT] who asked for [EXTRA WORK] outside our agreement covering [SCOPE]. Acknowledge, explain it's outside scope, offer it as a paid addition at GH¢ [AMOUNT]. Give a simple yes/no choice. Tone: helpful, not apologetic. Under 120 words.

CUSTOMIZE

Price the addition immediately.

WHAT GOOD LOOKS LIKE

Extra work becomes a business decision, not a favour.

Invoice chase — first reminder

WHEN TO USE

Invoice 1-2 days late.

THE PROMPT

Write a friendly first reminder for invoice [#NUMBER] of GH¢ [AMOUNT] for [PROJECT], due [DATE]. Assume oversight, not malice. Two sentences + payment details. Tone: light, zero accusation.

CUSTOMIZE

Send within 48 hours of the due date.

WHAT GOOD LOOKS LIKE

A nudge that gets most invoices paid within a day.

Testimonial request without the cringe

WHEN TO USE

Happy client, delivered project.

THE PROMPT

Write a short message asking [CLIENT] for a testimonial after [PROJECT]. Remind them of the result in one line, give 3 fill-in-the-blank sentence starters, ask permission to publish. Tone: warm, no pressure.

CUSTOMIZE

Name the actual result.

WHAT GOOD LOOKS LIKE

A request so easy the client says yes in 2 minutes.
