Creator Script System: Hooks & Long-Form

The difference between a video that dies and one that holds is structure, not talent. These prompts enforce the retention structure - you bring the voice.

Hook bank - 10 options

WHEN TO USE

You have a topic but no opening.

THE PROMPT

Write 10 hook options for a video about [TOPIC] for [AUDIENCE]. Use these patterns, 2 each: (1) shocking/contrarian statement, (2) specific number or result, (3) 'everyone's wrong about X' take, (4) open loop/question, (5) personal stake ('I almost gave up on X'). Max 15 words each. Mark the 2 strongest for a 0-3 second cold open. No 'hey guys', no 'in this video'.

CUSTOMIZE

The hook must be true - the video has to deliver it.

WHAT GOOD LOOKS LIKE

10 cold opens to test; the first 3 seconds decide everything.

Retention beat sheet

WHEN TO USE

Before writing the script.

THE PROMPT

Create a beat sheet for a [X]-minute video on [TOPIC]. Structure: 0:00-0:20 hook + promise, 0:20-1:00 stakes/credibility, then 3-5 main beats each with: the point, the example, the retention device (open loop, payoff tease, pattern interrupt), and approximate timestamps. Add 1 counterpoint beat (address the obvious objection). End: recap + specific next-video tease.

CUSTOMIZE

Place your strongest beat at ~40% in - that's where drop-off peaks.

WHAT GOOD LOOKS LIKE

A roadmap that keeps viewers watching to the end.

Full script from beat sheet

WHEN TO USE

Beat sheet approved.

THE PROMPT

Write the full script from this beat sheet: [PASTE]. [X] minutes spoken (~[WORD COUNT] words). Rules: (1) write for the ear - short sentences, contractions, words you'd actually say, (2) no stage directions, no headings, (3) no filler transitions, (4) one concrete detail per beat, (5) end on the tease. Tone: [TONE].

CUSTOMIZE

Read it aloud once - if you stumble, rewrite that line.

WHAT GOOD LOOKS LIKE

A script you can record without sounding like you're reading.

Open loop creation

WHEN TO USE

Script feels flat in the middle.

THE PROMPT

Here's a section of my script: [PASTE]. Rewrite it to include 3 open loops: moments where I promise to answer something later (e.g. 'the reason is weirder than you think - I'll show you in a minute'). Also add 2 callbacks: references to earlier moments that reward attentive viewers. Keep the content identical - just add tension.

CUSTOMIZE

Close every loop you open by the end - unresolved loops lose trust.

WHAT GOOD LOOKS LIKE

A middle section viewers can't leave.

De-AI pass on script

WHEN TO USE

Draft sounds like ChatGPT wrote it.

THE PROMPT

Rewrite this script to remove every AI tell: [PASTE]. Remove: em-dashes overuse, 'it's not just X, it's Y', 'the truth is', 'in today's world', triple-word repetitions for rhythm, perfectly balanced sentences. Replace with: sentence fragments, rhetorical questions, one inside joke or personal detail per section, and 2 moments of specific self-deprecation. Keep all facts and structure.

CUSTOMIZE

Add one detail only you would know - AI can't invent that.

WHAT GOOD LOOKS LIKE

A script that sounds like you talking to a friend.

Title + thumbnail pairing

WHEN TO USE

Script done, packaging time.

THE PROMPT

For this video [TOPIC/SCRIPT SUMMARY], generate: (1) 8 titles under 60 chars mixing curiosity, number and contrarian formats, (2) for the top 3 titles, a thumbnail concept: focal subject, expression/emotion, background, text overlay (max 3 words), and why it works, (3) which title-thumbnail pair is strongest and why. Avoid: red arrows, fake shock, text that duplicates the title.

CUSTOMIZE

The title and thumbnail must promise the same thing.

WHAT GOOD LOOKS LIKE

A package that earns the click the script deserves.

Pattern interrupt mid-script

WHEN TO USE

Viewers drop at a predictable point.

THE PROMPT

Here is my script around the [X] minute mark: [PASTE]. Viewers drop off here. Rewrite this section to include 2 pattern interrupts: a sudden change in pacing (a fast cut beat, a direct question to camera, a surprising sound/visual note), and re-order the section so the most interesting fact comes before the explanation. Keep the information identical.

CUSTOMIZE

Watch your analytics to find the exact drop-off point first.

WHAT GOOD LOOKS LIKE

A section that resets attention exactly where it fades.

Series concept design

WHEN TO USE

You want a repeatable format.

THE PROMPT

Design a 6-episode video series on [BROAD TOPIC] for [AUDIENCE]. For each episode: working title, the single promise, the hook angle, and how it builds on the previous episode. Plus: the 3-episode rule - which 3 episodes make a complete mini-series if I only make 3, and a naming pattern that makes the series recognizable.

CUSTOMIZE

A series beats one-offs for the algorithm and for you.

WHAT GOOD LOOKS LIKE

A month of content with a built-in audience pull.
