

Creator Script System: Shorts, Titles & Thumbnails

Tested AI prompt pack — Word + PDF

Creator Script System: Shorts, Titles & Thumbnails

The packaging half of the Creator Script System. If your content is good but no one clicks, this pack fixes the click.

Prompt count: 10 · Category: creators · Price: GH¢ 85

Shorts script - 30 seconds

WHEN TO USE

Vertical video.

THE PROMPT

Write a 30-second Shorts script on [TOPIC] for [AUDIENCE]. Beat structure: 0-3s hook (question or claim), 3-10s the promise, 10-22s two quick points with examples, 22-30s payoff + follow CTA. Spoken-word style, short sentences. Add a caption line and on-screen text suggestion per beat.

CUSTOMIZE

One idea only - Shorts that cover two ideas lose both.

WHAT GOOD LOOKS LIKE

A script tight enough to film in one take.

Title CTR bank

WHEN TO USE

Choosing a title.

THE PROMPT

Write 12 title options for a video about [TOPIC] using these formats, 3 each: number/list ('7 signs...'), curiosity gap ('the reason nobody tells you...'), contrarian ('stop doing X'), and result ('how I...'). Under 60 characters each. For the top 3, say which viewer emotion each targets.

CUSTOMIZE

Check your niche's top videos - borrow formats, never titles.

WHAT GOOD LOOKS LIKE

A title bank you can A/B on the same video.

Thumbnail concept generator

WHEN TO USE

Before designing.

THE PROMPT

Generate 8 thumbnail concepts for the video '[TITLE]'. For each: focal subject, facial expression/emotion, background, text overlay (max 3 words), composition note, and why it would earn the click. Avoid cliches: red arrows, shocked-face cliches, text that duplicates the title.

CUSTOMIZE

The thumbnail must promise what the title promised.

WHAT GOOD LOOKS LIKE

A thumbnail shortlist that survives the small-screen test.

First 5 seconds rewrite

WHEN TO USE

Retention dies instantly.

THE PROMPT

Here is my current opening: [PASTE]. Rewrite the first 5 seconds (20 words max) as: (1) a pattern interrupt (unexpected statement), (2) a specific number, (3) a direct question to the viewer. Keep the promise identical. Then write the first sentence that must follow each hook.

CUSTOMIZE

Record 3 versions and pick by feel - delivery matters as much as words.

WHAT GOOD LOOKS LIKE

Cold opens that stop the scroll before the scroll stops you.

End screen CTA + next video tease

WHEN TO USE

Finishing a script.

THE PROMPT

Write the last 15 seconds of this video: [SCRIPT SUMMARY]. Include: (1) a recap line of the one takeaway, (2) a tease of the next video [NEXT TOPIC] that creates an open loop, (3) a subscribe line with a specific reason ('I post every Tuesday about X'), (4) a comment question. 40-60 words total.

CUSTOMIZE

The tease should make the next video feel like a debt you owe them.

WHAT GOOD LOOKS LIKE

An ending that feeds the algorithm and the series.

Description + tags pack

WHEN TO USE

Upload day.

THE PROMPT

Write the upload metadata for a video titled '[TITLE]' about [TOPIC]: (1) a 150-word description with the hook repeated, 3 bullet takeaways, and a CTA, (2) 15 SEO tags mixing broad and specific, (3) 3 chapters with timestamps if the video has sections, (4) a pinned comment with a question.

CUSTOMIZE

Put your target keyword in the first 100 characters.

WHAT GOOD LOOKS LIKE

Metadata that gives the algorithm and the viewer what they want.

Comment section engine

WHEN TO USE

Boosting engagement after posting.

THE PROMPT

Here is my video [TOPIC]. Write: (1) 10 comment replies I can post to early viewers that add value or ask questions, (2) 5 comment prompts I can post myself (a hot take, a question, a correction) to spark threads, (3) the 3 comment types I should reply to first.

CUSTOMIZE

Reply within the first hour - early engagement compounds.

WHAT GOOD LOOKS LIKE

A comment strategy that turns viewers into commenters.

Series hook across episodes

WHEN TO USE

Starting a series.

THE PROMPT

For a series on [TOPIC], write: (1) a 5-second series intro hook (same across episodes, one line), (2) the pattern each episode follows (open loop from last time, new lesson, tease next), (3) 5 episode titles that make the series feel like a progression, (4) a one-line series pitch for new viewers.

CUSTOMIZE

Series with a pattern build a habit; habits build subscribers.

WHAT GOOD LOOKS LIKE

A series format viewers learn to expect.

Trend adaptation

WHEN TO USE

A trend is blowing up in your niche.

THE PROMPT

The trend '[TREND]' is big for [AUDIENCE]. Adapt it to [MY CHANNEL TOPIC] without copying: (1) 3 angles that fit my channel's promise, (2) for each - the hook, the twist that makes it mine, the CTA, (3) how to post within 48 hours while the trend peaks. Flag anything that would feel off-brand.

CUSTOMIZE

Trends serve the channel, never the other way around.

WHAT GOOD LOOKS LIKE

A trend play that borrows attention, not content.

Analytics review for creators

WHEN TO USE

Monthly check-in.

THE PROMPT

Here are my channel stats: [PASTE - views, retention, CTR, subs]. Analyze: (1) the pattern in my top 3 videos vs bottom 3 (titles? topics? length?), (2) my average retention curve's biggest drop point, (3) 3 specific changes for next month, (4) one thing to stop doing. Be blunt.

CUSTOMIZE

Compare like-for-like: same topic, different packaging tells you what packaging does.

WHAT GOOD LOOKS LIKE

A monthly review that turns data into one clear change.