Idea mining from your niche

WHEN TO USE

Out of ideas.

THE PROMPT

Mine 15 video ideas for [NICHE] targeting [AUDIENCE] from: (1) the top 20 videos in the niche (what angles repeat, what's missing), (2) questions people ask in comments, (3) my own expertise [MY SKILLS]. Label each idea: evergreen or trending, and the hook angle. No 'reacts' or 'top 10' filler unless it fits the channel.

CUSTOMIZE

The missing angles are your best opportunities.

WHAT GOOD LOOKS LIKE

A month of ideas with reasons behind each.

Keyword research for creators

WHEN TO USE

Choosing between topics.

THE PROMPT

For the topic '[TOPIC]', research the angle space: (1) 8 search phrases people use (long-tail), (2) which existing videos rank and what they cover, (3) 3 angles not covered, (4) a recommendation: which angle I should make first and why. Act as a YouTube strategist.

CUSTOMIZE

Search yourself - the 'people also ask' box is free research.

WHAT GOOD LOOKS LIKE

A topic decision backed by evidence, not gut feel.

Viewer avatar

WHEN TO USE

Before a content sprint.

THE PROMPT

Build a viewer avatar for [CHANNEL NICHE]: demographics, what they watch before bed, their level of knowledge, their 3 biggest frustrations, the words they search, what makes them click vs scroll, what makes them subscribe vs just watch. Then write 3 content briefs this avatar would click.

CUSTOMIZE

Steal details from real comments on your videos.

WHAT GOOD LOOKS LIKE

A target so clear that 'who is this for?' stops being a question.

Content sprint plan

WHEN TO USE

Batch production day.

THE PROMPT

Plan a 1-day content sprint producing [N] videos: (1) the batch order (research -> scripts -> packaging), (2) for each video - topic, hook, title, thumbnail concept, (3) what to prepare in advance (b-roll, props), (4) timebox per step so the day finishes. Realistic for a solo creator.

CUSTOMIZE

Batching packaging with scripting keeps the promise consistent.

WHAT GOOD LOOKS LIKE

A sprint board that makes a day produce a month.

Script from research notes

WHEN TO USE

Raw material in hand.

THE PROMPT

Here are my research notes: [PASTE - links, stats, quotes, examples]. Write a [X]-minute script that: opens with the strongest hook from the notes, structures the points in a rising order of interest, cites the stat with its source naturally ('a 2025 study found...'), ends with a takeaway and next-video tease. No filler.

CUSTOMIZE

The strongest point goes at 40% in, not the end.

WHAT GOOD LOOKS LIKE

A script built from real material, not AI averages.

Repurpose a long video into Shorts

WHEN TO USE

Long content underperforming.

THE PROMPT

From this long-form script: [PASTE], extract 5 Shorts: each with (1) the 30-second cut (which beat to use), (2) a new hook for standalone viewing, (3) the caption, (4) which part of the long video it links back to. Different beats - no duplicates.

CUSTOMIZE

Shorts that tease the long video can feed it views.

WHAT GOOD LOOKS LIKE

Five vertical videos from one horizontal one.

Collaboration pitch

WHEN TO USE

Finding collab partners.

THE PROMPT

Write a collab pitch to [CREATOR] (subs: [N]) from me ([MY CHANNEL], [MY SUBS], [MY NICHE]). Proposed video: [IDEA] that plays to both audiences. Explain in 3 sentences why it works for THEM (their audience gets X), what I bring, and the simple next step. Under 120 words, no flattery spam.

CUSTOMIZE

Reference one of their actual videos - it doubles reply rates.

WHAT GOOD LOOKS LIKE

A pitch that feels like an opportunity, not a request.

Monetization plan

WHEN TO USE

Ready to earn.

THE PROMPT

Build a monetization plan for [CHANNEL] with [N] subs in [NICHE]. Compare: AdSense, sponsorships, digital products (prompts/ebooks/courses), memberships, affiliate. For each: requirements, realistic monthly range at my size, effort, and fit with my audience. Recommend a 3-stream combo and the order to add them.

CUSTOMIZE

Digital products beat ads for niche audiences - the math is brutal.

WHAT GOOD LOOKS LIKE

A revenue plan that matches where you are, not where gurus are.

Comment-to-content loop

WHEN TO USE

Engagement plateau.

THE PROMPT

Here are 30 comments from my recent videos: [PASTE]. Identify: (1) the 3 most common questions (these become videos), (2) objections or misconceptions worth addressing head-on, (3) compliments that reveal what viewers value most, (4) 5 video titles directly answering the questions.

CUSTOMIZE

Your comment section is a free focus group - run it weekly.

WHAT GOOD LOOKS LIKE

A content loop that lets the audience write your calendar.

Launch a mini-product to your audience

WHEN TO USE

Audience ready to buy.

THE PROMPT

Design a mini digital product for [AUDIENCE] based on [TOPIC I'M KNOWN FOR]: (1) the product (prompt pack/guide/template), (2) price in GH¢, (3) the 3 promised outcomes, (4) a 5-day launch plan across my existing content, (5) the CTA script for the launch video.

CUSTOMIZE

Start smaller than feels comfortable - a $7 win beats a $50 maybe.

WHAT GOOD LOOKS LIKE

A product + launch plan that fits a solo creator's bandwidth.

Weekly creator review

WHEN TO USE

Every Sunday.

THE PROMPT

Here is my week: [PASTE - videos published, stats, comments, time spent]. Review: (1) what moved and why, (2) the best use of next week's time (content? packaging? community?), (3) one experiment to run next week, (4) what to stop doing. Keep it 5 bullets max.

CUSTOMIZE

Consistency of review matters more than brilliance of review.

WHAT GOOD LOOKS LIKE

A Sunday ritual that compounds weekly.
