

Copy That Converts: Content, Social & SEO

Tested AI prompt pack — Word + PDF

Copy That Converts: Content, Social & SEO

Content is a compounding asset - if it's structured to rank and written to be read. These prompts handle the structure so your voice stays yours.

Prompt count: 10 · Category: marketing · Price: GH¢ 85

SEO blog post outline

WHEN TO USE

Writing a post that should rank.

THE PROMPT

Create a detailed outline for a blog post targeting the keyword '[KEYWORD]' for [AUDIENCE]. Include: (1) 3 search-intent-matched title options under 60 chars, (2) an H2/H3 skeleton with the angle for each section, (3) the specific question each section answers, (4) places to add internal links to [EXISTING POSTS], (5) a FAQ block with 3 questions people also ask. Also list what the SERP results for this keyword currently cover and how we'll be more useful.

CUSTOMIZE

Check the actual SERP before running - gaps are gold.

WHAT GOOD LOOKS LIKE

An outline that out-specs the current top 10 results.

Blog post from outline

WHEN TO USE

Outline done, first draft time.

THE PROMPT

Write the first draft of the blog post using this outline: [PASTE OUTLINE]. Target: [WORD COUNT] words for [AUDIENCE]. Rules: (1) open with the reader's problem, not 'in today's world', (2) one idea per paragraph, (3) include 3 concrete examples with real numbers, (4) no fluff transitions ('it's important to note'), (5) end with 3 actionable takeaways + 1 question for comments. Write in [TONE].

CUSTOMIZE

Give it one specific example from your own experience.

WHAT GOOD LOOKS LIKE

A draft that needs editing, not resurrection.

Content repurposing chain

WHEN TO USE

You have one good piece of content.

THE PROMPT

Here is a blog post: [PASTE]. Repurpose it into: (1) a 10-post social thread with hooks, (2) a 30-second video script, (3) a newsletter teaser (80 words), (4) a LinkedIn post with a contrarian take from the content, (5) 3 quote cards with the strongest lines. Keep the core message identical across all - just change the container.

CUSTOMIZE

Repurpose the winner, not everything.

WHAT GOOD LOOKS LIKE

A week of content from one asset.

Social caption bank (30 days)

WHEN TO USE

Your calendar is empty.

THE PROMPT

Write 30 social captions for [PLATFORM] for [BUSINESS] targeting [AUDIENCE]. Mix: 10 value (tips/how-to), 8 story (behind the scenes), 6 proof (results/customers), 4 engagement (questions/polls), 2 promo (soft sell). Each under 80 words with 3-5 hashtags. Vary the opening lines - no repeating 'Did you know...'. Keep the brand voice [VOICE].

CUSTOMIZE

Bank them, then post daily and adapt to what lands.

WHAT GOOD LOOKS LIKE

A month of content ready to schedule.

LinkedIn post from experience

WHEN TO USE

You had a work lesson worth sharing.

THE PROMPT

Turn this experience into a LinkedIn post: [WHAT HAPPENED]. Structure: hook line (the lesson or the twist), 3-5 short paragraphs telling it with one concrete detail each, the takeaway, and a question to invite comments. No 'I'm thrilled to share', no hashtag spam (max 3), no em-dash abuse. 150-250 words.

CUSTOMIZE

The more specific the detail, the more relatable the post.

WHAT GOOD LOOKS LIKE

A LinkedIn post that gets comments from strangers.

Email newsletter issue

WHEN TO USE

Weekly newsletter time.

THE PROMPT

Write this week's newsletter for [AUDIENCE] around the theme '[THEME]'. Structure: (1) 2-sentence opener with the week's take, (2) the main story/lesson with a real example, (3) 3 quick links/resources with one-line why-they-matter, (4) one question to reply to. 250-350 words. Tone: [TONE] - like a smart friend, not a brand.

CUSTOMIZE

Reply-to questions create your next issue's material.

WHAT GOOD LOOKS LIKE

A newsletter people actually open and answer.

Video script - short form (Reels/TikTok/Shorts)

WHEN TO USE

Creating a short video.

THE PROMPT

Write a [X]-second video script for [TOPIC] to [AUDIENCE]. Structure by second: 0-3 hook (pattern interrupt), 3-10 the promise, 10-20 the proof or demo, 20-30 the payoff + CTA. Written for voiceover - short sentences, no words you wouldn't say aloud. Add one caption line and one on-screen text suggestion.

CUSTOMIZE

Steal the hook patterns from videos that already blew up in your niche.

WHAT GOOD LOOKS LIKE

A script tight enough to film in one take.

Content calendar builder

WHEN TO USE

Planning the month.

THE PROMPT

Build a 4-week content calendar for [BUSINESS] across [PLATFORMS]. For each day: format, topic, hook line, CTA, and which pillar it serves (educate/entertain/inspire/promote). Balance: 60% value, 20% story, 10% proof, 10% promo. Leave 2 slots per week flexible for trends. Use these seed topics: [TOPICS].

CUSTOMIZE

Schedule it in your tool and move on - don't overthink.

WHAT GOOD LOOKS LIKE

A calendar that removes 'what do I post' forever.

Google Business Profile posts

WHEN TO USE

Local SEO + appearing in maps.

THE PROMPT

Write 7 Google Business Profile posts for [LOCAL BUSINESS] this week: 2 offers, 2 updates (new stock/services), 1 event, 1 behind-the-scenes, 1 customer-win. Each under 300 chars (Google's limit), with a CTA and a keyword [LOCAL KEYWORD + CITY]. No hashtags on Google posts.

CUSTOMIZE

Add a photo to every post - posts with photos get 3x engagement.

WHAT GOOD LOOKS LIKE

A week of local visibility in minutes.

Voice-of-customer mining

WHEN TO USE

You're out of content ideas.

THE PROMPT

Here are comments, DMs and reviews from my audience: [PASTE]. Extract: (1) the 5 most repeated problems, (2) the exact phrases people use to describe them (verbatim - these become headlines), (3) the 3 questions that show up most, (4) 10 content ideas directly answering these, each with a working title. This is a goldmine - treat the phrases as sacred.

CUSTOMIZE

Mine once a month; your audience writes your calendar.

WHAT GOOD LOOKS LIKE

Content ideas that are guaranteed relevant because they're real.